HARRY MELVIN HATCH, the only child of Ella (Lackey) and Henry Hatch was born 2-7-1892 and grew up in the tiny northern Indiana farm town of Butler. He loved nature and geography and drawing and was an avid reader. His first teacher was Lucy Hatch, sister of father Henry. He suffered an eye injury a sliver of steel, while working briefly in Youngstown, OH. and surgery left him permanently disfigured and blind in that eye which was always embarrassing to him. He was disappointed in being unable to serve his country in World War I. He attended the Art School in Battle Creek, Mich. where he met and courted Beulah Olmstead. They were married in 1918 in Bay City and moved to Lansing where he was a window trimmer for the leading department store. They moved to Jackson where he opened his own sign shop which he sold later to Central Advertising Co. and served as their manager in Battle Creek until his death in 1964. Daughter Nancy was born in Jackson after they had lost a baby girl previously. Daughter Norma was born six years later in Battle Creek. Harry loved his family very much and planned many interesting activities like camping trips, Sunday rides in the country, temporary pets such as mice, snake and cocoons and taught his girls much about the out- of doors. He managed to work enough during the great depression to keep us fed and clothed and our home intact and we never felt "poor". He always put his daughters and wife first. He raised his girls in the Methodist Church and had a strong faith himself. He died in 1964 following a series of strokes.

HATCH

Ella Lackey, daughter of John A. and Rachael Lackey, was born in Butler, Ind., December 22, 1868 and was married to Henry Hatch on March 23, 1890. To this union was born one son, Harry Hatch. Mrs. Hatch died June 13, 1929, aged 60 years, 5 months and 22 days. She leaves to mourn her departure, the husband, the son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hatch and granddaughter Nancy Hatch, three brothers Mel, Madison and Eugene, Lackey, one half-brother Mack Morgan and a host of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Hatch confessed her faith in Jesus as the son of God and died in the sure hope of a resurrection from the dead.

She lived in this community for 60 years. except for three years, which she and her husband lived in Montpelier, Ohio.

Her favorite—23rd Psalm.

Mrs. Hatch was a home body and took great delight in ministering to her husband and son—a good woman, an affectionate wife, a loving mother and a kind friend has gone to her reward.

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: yea sayeth the Spirit that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. I. Konkle with morticians Johnson & Son in charge.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
For thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

My dear Mrs. Hatch:

I received your letter of March 17th and the postal order in the amount of ten dollars enclosed therewith.

After searching through various Hatch books and trying to learn something from county histories I decided the best procedure would be to have a photostatic copy made of certain pages in the Genealogy and History of the Hatch Family; Descendants of Thomas and Grace Hatch of Dorchester, Yarmouth and Barnstable, 1925-31. It seemed to me that the family of your husband tied in with this family as I checked it against the information you gave me in your letter. I refer to the children of Stephen Hatch of Lebanon, N.Y.

I shall give the references that you may follow it more easily.

I believe census and probate records might be useful in giving some information about Henry Hatch and his son Henry, The 1850, 1860 and 1870 and 1880 could be done.

You will find enclosed herewith my statement for the work.

Sincerely yours,

THE HATCH FAMILY IN ENGLAND

"Hatch is a name derived from an old Anglo-Saxon word, Hacche, meaning a door or floodgate, consisting of great stakes put up by fishermen to help in securing fish. Hacche is also a term for a bar across a woodland path to prevent deer escaping. If Henry lived near a hacche, he would be called Henry atte hacche and finally Henry Hatch. Richard atte Hacche and Phillip de la Hacche are names in old records. The name first appears in Domesday Book in the form of "Hache." "Hache" also means a small ax among French speaking people.

"The Hatch (written differently 'Hatch', 'Hacche', 'Hach') family were established as landowners in Devonshire at an early period "as the preceeding chart will show." The Hatch family of Ardee Castle in County Louth, Ireland, have the same coat of arms as the Cornwall and Devon families, indicating the family connection, as shown by the following description:

Christopher Hatch (Busuistock, County Cornwall) descended from Jaffrey Hatch (Temp. Ed. III.), visitation 1620.

Arms: Gu. two demi lions pass. or.

Hatch of Hatch, County Devon. (Co-heiress of Robert Hatch, Esq., of Saterleigh Park, Devon). The representative of this family married John Drake, Esq., of Barnstaple, Ancestor of Robert Hache Drake, Esq., Commander R., N. and Zachary Hammett Drake, Esq., of Springfield, Devon.

Arms: Gu. two demi lions pass. guard, or.

Crest: a lion's head cabossed arg.

At Auler and Chittlehampton (Devon) are families of the same using the same Arms.

Ardee Castle (Co. Louth).

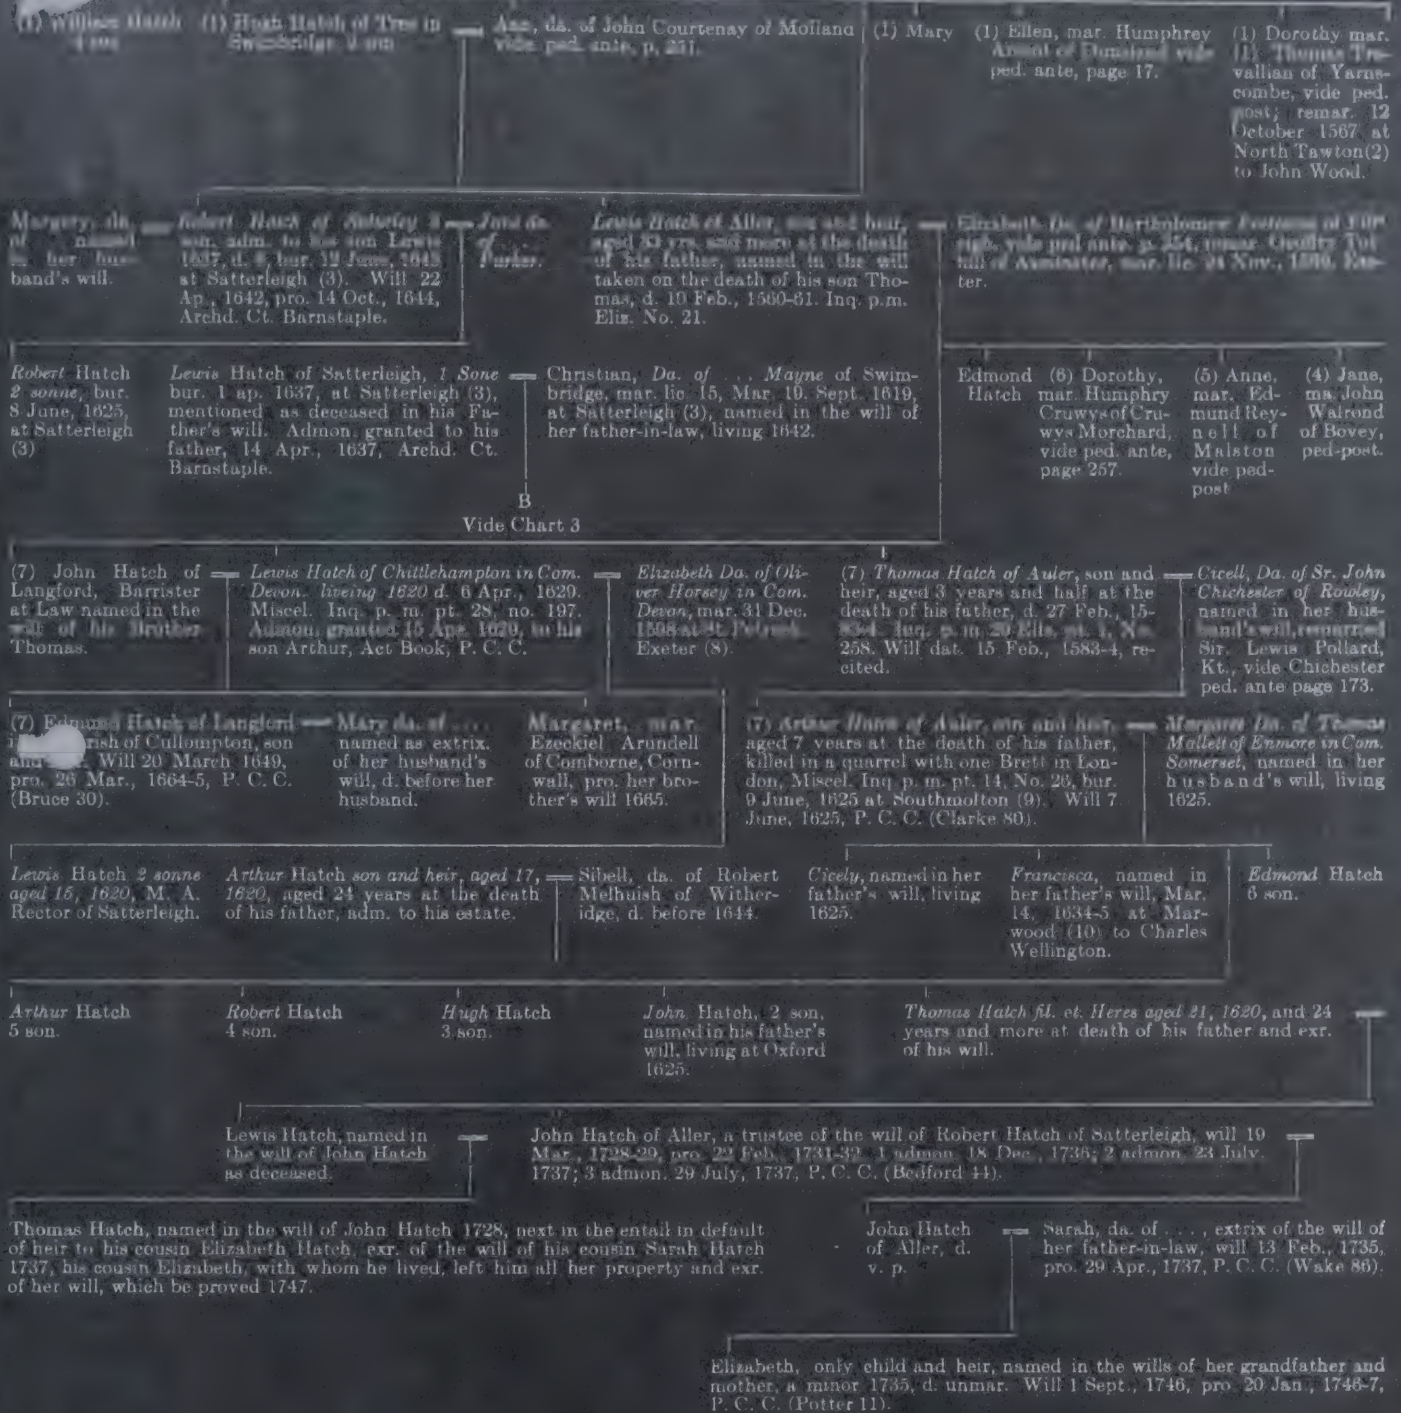

Arms: Gu. two demi lions pass. guard. coupé in pale or. a chief arg. a cannon mounted ppr.

Crest: A demi lion pass. guard. coupé in pale or. armed and langued gu. charged on the breast with a pile of shot ppr. and holding in the paws a staff also ppr. thereto affixed a flag arg. charged with a cross of the second.

Motto: "Fortis valore et armis." "Brave by valor and by arms." "Safer with hope than with arms," is another motto of the Hatch family.

3. The Hatch Act of Parl. 3 and 4 Anne.

Vol. 4, p. 31). This Thomas Hatch of Dorchester, Yarmouth, and Barnstable did not belong to the Hatch family of Scituate which came from Kent County, England."

1. THOMAS HATCH of family "B" is supposed to have been born about 1603. Of his life previous to his removal to New England, not much is known to us. He married a young woman by the name of GRACE, probably as a second wife. Her family name seems not now to be known but she is said to have been of Welch extraction, and in this connection there is a pretty little romance which has been preserved among his descendants to this day. "Miss Grace, it seems, was a very winsome and popular young woman and Thomas had more than one rival for her heart and hand. But the contest finally simmered down to Thomas and one other, and Miss Grace found it difficult to decide which she liked the better. Finally, as they were farmers, it was agreed by all concerned that fate should be determined by a reaping match, he who could reap a certain equal measured portion of a field of grain, to get the prize. And Miss Grace, being herself a farmer's daughter and a skillful reaper determined that she also would have a hand in the contest, that was to decide her fate consequently she, with true feminine diplomacy had her equal portion staked out between the other two and the contest began. Reaping grain at that time was done by the hand sickle. In the meantime as her fate was so near a determination, Miss Grace did some vigorous thinking as is apt to be the case when events of serious consequences are imminent and having concluded that, on the whole, she rather liked Thomas a little the better, she slyly cut over a little onto Thomas' portion, thus enabling him to finish slightly ahead."

It was probably early in the year of 1634 that Thomas Hatch removed with his family to the wilderness of the New World, during the great Puritan emigration from England to the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

May 14, 1634 he was by vote of the court of General Assembly made a freeman of Massachusetts Bay Colony. The court at that time was very strict as to whom they admitted the right to vote and have a voice in the management of the public affairs of the Colony. To become a freeman of the colony one must be 25 years of age, a man having a family, a freeholder (or land owner) and be a member of the Puritan or Congregational church. They admitted no vagabonds or irresponsible persons into public affairs at that time.

Thomas Hatch was a public spirited citizen and a man of business ability and during his residence in Massachusetts Bay Colony must have acquired some property and been a man of influence in the locality where he lived. According to the town records of Dorchester, Mass., under date of December 29, 1634, "It is ordered that John Philips and Thomas Hatch shall have, each of them, two acres of land that lies betwixt the ends of the great lots and three acres that is granted to Alexander Miller, if so much there be, provided they leave sufficient highway at their great lots." These two acres were apparently some remnants of land that did not come within the bounds of "their great lots" as laid out.

January 7, 1639, Thomas Hatch and nine others whose names are given applied to Plymouth Colony for grant of leave to purchase land and form a new township at a place now known as Yarmouth on the Cape Cod peninsula. The leave was granted and Thomas Hatch and the other grantees at once went there and built themselves log houses. The town was incorporated January 17, 1639 and named Yarmouth. A committee was soon appointed to have charge of the division or allotment of lands and the sale of the same. These first settlers were people of strict moral and religious character, they had no intention of admitting into their new settlement any persons who might be a disturbing element in it. In March 1640 the committee for the sale of lands was instructed to have a strict care to admit no settlers into the town except such as bring certificates from well known men as to their "religious and honest carriage" in the places from whence they came. By the close of 1640 about 25 families had settled in the new town.

It would seem that some difficulty arose over the first grants or division of land among the incorporators. The early records of the town were destroyed in a fire so that it is difficult now to determine just the nature of the dispute. At a court held at Yarmouth, June 17, 1642 by three of the Governor's Assistants an attempt was made to straighten matters out but it appears was only partially successful. It was during and probably on account of this dispute over these lands that Thomas Hatch moved to the town of Barnstable June 1, 1641. Thomas Hatch was an upright man and he may have felt that he had not been fairly dealt with or at any rate that he would prefer to reside where he could live amicably with his neighbors and in undisputed possession of his property. That his lands were included among others in the dispute is evident from the records of a hearing held before Capt. Standish in 1648 by order of the Court designed to clear up and put an end to such differences as still remained, for among several other names that of "Thomas Hatch" is mentioned. At this time, too "Anthony Thacher claimed 80 acres in the west field in Yarmouth that had been bought of Thomas Hatch."

Thomas Hatch resided in the town of Barnstable for the balance of his life and was probably a member of the church of the celebrated Rev. John Lathrop. In 1643 his name appears on the roll of those "able to bear arms in Barnstable." He was at this time about 40 years of age. In Jan. 1644 his name is on the "list of approved inhabitants of Barnstable" showing that he was a man of good character and influence and held in esteem by his fellow townsmen. It seems evident that he must have acquired some landed estate in this town, for we know he acquired land at other places where he resided in Massachusetts Bay and Plymouth Colonies. The records of deed and transfers of land in Barnstable previous to 1700 were destroyed in a fire so there is now no official record of the lands owned by any of the early settlers but every thing points to the conclusion that he must have been a land holder in the town.

He died in Barnstable in 1661 probably in April or May. May 27, 1661 an inventory of his personal estate was taken by Isaac Robinson and Thomas Ewer and sworn to by his widow Grace. It amounted to £17-18s. Authorities are agreed that he was of exemplary character and a very pious man. What became of his widow Grace, seems not to be known."

2. i. Jonathan Hatch², b. about 1625 in England.
ii. Lydia², b. ———, m. 19 Dec., 1650 Henry Taylor of Barnstable. He probably son of John Taylor. He evidently followed his wife's people to Barnstable where he resided until her death. He appears to have been the same Henry Taylor who was made freeman in Boston, 3 May, 1665. After the death of Lydia he md. Mary ———. She is mentioned as his wife in 1665. On Aug. 6, 1666, "Henry Taylor of Boston, Chirurgion and Mary his wife, for a valuable consideration" sold Roger Rose ——— Lighterman ——— a dwelling house and land on which it standeth" in Boston, on the streets or way leading toward the great Dock." The deed was signed:

Suffolk County Deeds Book, 7 Page 125.

On May 6, 1667 Henry Taylor, Chirurgion, of Boston and his wife Mary, for 508 pounds, paid by William Talor of the said Boston merchant, sold him, "A Warehouse in Boston, aforesaid with the wharfe before it bounded with the mill Creeke, Southerly, with Land of Thomas Lake Merchant, Westerly," also two "wharfs adjoining" with the two warehouses upon them, which "are yet in the possession of the said Henry Taylor." The deed, signed by "Henry Taylor" and "Mary Taylor", was acknowledged "in the presence of John Paine." The house near the "great Dock" and the wharf property are not recorded as having been purchased by Henry Taylor; he appears to have come into possession by inheritance, or through his second wife. On March 6, 1666, "Moses Mavericke of Marvellhead (Marblehead) gent and Eunice his wife," for 230 pounds sold "Henry Tailor of Boston, Chirurgion, A dwelling house with a yard, garden and all other appurtnances thereunto belonging," formerly belonging to "Thomas Roberts formerly of Boston aforesaid Deceased and appropriated unto the said Eunice the Relict of the said Roberts and her children namely, Timothy Roberts, Elizabeth Roberts, Lidia Roberts and Eunice Roberts." This deed was signed by "Moses Mavericke, Eunice Mavericke (and) Timothy Roberts," their acknowledgement was witnessed by Joshua Scottow." Sept. 25, 1671, Henry Taylor and his wife, Mary again mortgaged the premises bought of Mavericke; this time for 362 pounds, to John Morse." There is no further record of Doctor Taylor in Boston; possibly he became financially involved, lost his house, and left the town; yet he may have lived there some years.

From the fact that William Dyer married the daughter of Dr. Henry Taylor it is reasonable to suppose that Dyer studied medicine with Dr. Taylor. The latter was a physician of recognized merit, while in Boston. The only way at that time of obtaining medical education was through apprenticeship to a physician. It is said that not a medical college existed in the Colonies prior to 1765. The profession at its best was crude; remedies were few, and bleeding was resorted to for almost every ill. Let us hope that Dr. Dyer was more skillful than a certain physician of his day in New Hampshire; of whom it is said that he "began by doctoring cattle; later, with more or less success, he treated the human kind." 2. JONATHAN HATCH². (Thomas¹). From all that we learn of him, Jonathan Hatch, whose descendants we shall follow, was a man of great energy and force of character with a decided will of his own which brooked no unseemly restraints.

He was a pioneer in the march of civilization in the stirring times of the early history of New England, a man of daring enterprise and romantic adventure, only a part of which is known to us now.

He was born in England about 1625 and came to Mass. Bay Colony with his father in 1634. Even as a boy he was a lad of spirit and perhaps somewhat willful and disinclined to conform to all the austerities and restrictions of the intolerant age in which he lived. The most of his early struggles with society came from this cause and not from any natural depravity in the boy or man and from the further circumstance that as a boy his lot was cast largely among strangers where he was deprived of the loving counsel of good friends.

The theory has been advanced and with apparent good reason, that his father's wife Grace was a second wife, and not the mother of Jonathan and his sister Lydia, and that she and the children did not get along well together as a reason why the children did not apparently live much at their father's house.

At that time in Plymouth and Mass. Bay Colonies it was the custom of those who assumed leadership in any community to look askance and with disfavor upon any one who had no regular occupation or permanent place of abode. Such persons were the subjects of special attention and closely watched and either ordered out of town or appointed by the Court or Town Meeting to reside with some family of known probity to watch over them and keep them employed and out of mischief.

This was due partly to the austerity of the time, and the responsibility of training the twig as the tree should stand, but partly also to the fact that in their hand to hand conflict with the wilderness and the savage the colonists could not afford to have any impecunious person come into town who might become a public charge on the community or set a bad example for others. Sobriety, industry and frugality were prime virtues at that time.

The austerity of the time frowned upon all amusements as a device of the Devil. The Sabbath must be sacredly and religiously observed. They were perhaps too prone to meddle in private affairs and opinions, to put a straight jacket upon everyone's conduct, public and private. Even the clothes one might wear were subject to regulation by Puritan law. (See Laws of Massachusetts, 1634 and later).

But with all their drabness and austerity perhaps we should not judge those stern old Puritans too harshly. They were human and had their faults but they were a conscientious, God-fearing race, sternly doing their duty as they saw it; erring sometimes doubtless, sometimes in their zeal cruel and intolerant, but always we may, well believe actuated by what they conceived to be the good of their religion and their respective communities.

In view of all these circumstances and perhaps also in the belief that the discipline of the soldier would benefit the boy, Jonathan was at about the age of 12 apprenticed to Lieut. Davenport of Salem, Mass.

There is little doubt that the free spirit of Jonathan chafed and fretted under the strictures and discipline of the soldier and perhaps a home-sick longing to be near friends and after serving him for about two years he could endure it no longer and deserted and made his way to Boston with the probable intent of seeking passage by boat to Yarmouth where his father then resided.

A strange boy wandering around the streets and wharves of Boston was, at that time, a sufficiently grave matter to be inquired into. It probably did not take long to ascertain the true state of affairs. Sept. 2, 1640 he was arrested as a fugitive from service and "was censured to be severely whipped and for the present is committed for a slave to Lieut. Davenport." (*)

But Jonathan did not wait for any whipping nor did he return to Lieut. Davenport. He had a good head and two good legs and the spirit and will to use them and they brought him safely to his father's home at Yarmouth.

Although his conduct in this case could not be justified by the law of that time, we cannot but admire his brave manly spirit in his resistance to the strictures and intolerant spirit of the age and for his courage and daring, boy though he was, in striking out for liberty, alone and unaided.

Though he gained his liberty in a practically hostile community and arrived safely in Yarmouth, his troubles did not end there. Dec. 1, 1640 Capt. Nicholas Simpkins had him arrested and charged with slandering him. When the case came up for trial in the General Court at Plymouth, Jonathan evidently proved the truth of his charges for Capt. Simpkins was fined 40 shillings and Jonathan was set free.

Still his troubles did not end. His father moved to Barnstable in June, 1641, but Jonathan apparently lived on in Yarmouth earning such a living as he could with no settled occupation or place of residence. That of itself was a sufficient reason why those stern old Puritans of that time should have him under observation. Undoubtedly they did.

Mar. 1, 1642 he was "taken as a vagrant and for his misdemeanors was censured to be whipped and sent from constable to constable to Lieut. Davenport, at Salem." His misdemeanors, aside from his desertion from Lieut. Davenport were probably nothing more than the natural disinclination of a spirited and exuberant youth to conform to all the austerities and restrictions of the strict age in which he lived.

The above sentence appears not to have been executed. Jonathan may have protested he would never stay there if sent. Knowing something of the spirit of the lad may have been cause for second thought. At the session of the Court held about a month later, April 5, 1642, this sentence was reconsidered. Jonathan was in Plymouth Colony while Lieut. Davenport was in Mass. Bay Colony. It was held Jonathan could not be sent back into the service of a master residing in another colony. And so Jonathan escaped again. But the Court appointed him to reside with Mr. Stephen Hopkins of Plymouth, who was enjoined to have a special care of him.

*Slave at that time in New England meant a bond servant or person bound to service for a specified length of time. There were not many of them.

Mr. Hopkins died about two years later. In 1644 we find Jonathan in Barnstable where he was on the list of those able to bear arms. In 1645 he was one of four men forming the quota of Barnstable who with men from other towns went forth Aug. 15 in an expedition against the Narragansett Indians. They returned Sept. 2 and were disbanded the next day.

April 11, 1646 he married at Barnstable, Miss SARAH ROWLEY, daughter of Henry Rowley by his first wife Ann, who was widow of Thomas Blossom and daughter of William Palmer, Sr., and his wife Frances. William Palmer came to Plymouth Colony in 1621 and in 1639 was one of the original first settlers of Yarmouth. Both Blossom and Palmer were of the Pilgrim element. Ann Palmer married Thomas Blossom in England in 1615 and went with him to Leyden, Holland where they were a part of the Pilgrim settlement. In 1620 they came to Plymouth, England in the Speedwell intending to take passage on the Mayflower for America; but for some reason found it impractical to do so and returned to Leyden, where they formed a part of the Pilgrim group.

While in Leyden, Blossom held some correspondence with Gov. William Bradford of Plymouth Colony and in 1629 he and his wife and son came to Plymouth, Mass. Blossom died soon after and Oct. 17, 1633 his widow married Henry Rowley as his first wife. Their first child was Sarah, who at about the age of 13 married Jonathan Hatch. After his marriage, Jonathan lived for some years at West Barnstable.

Oct. 7, 1651 he and Samuel Hinkley, father of Governor Hinkley, were brought before the grand jury on a charge of hiring land from the Indians. Not a very heinous offense it would seem now, but rather as an evidence of their energy and enterprise. But at that time it was felt that enterprises of that kind should be discouraged as likely to lead to misunderstandings and trouble with the Indians.

Feb. 24, 1652 he was appointed one of a commission that was to "choose and lay out a common highway between Plymouth and Sandwich, according to your best judgment where you shall find it most convenient for the country's use," showing that at that time the Court had confidence in his integrity and good judgment. This road was at that time one of the most important roads in the colony.

an allotment of lands. The meeting appears to have been held at Jonathan Hatch's house so that they might view the land and make an equitable allotment. The land by the Herring Brook was to be "in general." Each of the proprietors was allotted about 80 acres. Commencing at the sea shore as a base these lots ran straight back into the interior. Nine of them were 16 rods broad, three were 17 rods broad, two were 8½ rods broad and one (that to Isaac Robinson) was 18 rods broad. These lots were just east of the Herring Pond and the lines of the lots were to run to "the same point of the compass as Jonathan Hatch's 80 acres upon the sea," showing that Jonathan had his farm there of 80 acres previous to this first allotment. He probably selected and laid out his land soon after he moved there and it was not by his house, but by the sea. For the better accommodation of all some other small allotments of 4 to 8 acres were made and "Jonathan Hatch and Isaac Robinson because they have built their houses shall have their lots by their houses, that is to say Jonathan Hatch to have 10 acres by his house, lying against the neck, leaving a sufficient way into the neck; and Isaac Robinson shall have 4 acres by his house and 8 acres next adjoining Jonathan Hatches."

Apparently upon second thought "because we questioned whether we should get water on these lots we laid out 4 acres to a share along by the pond * * * a sufficient way to be left along by the pond side above or below the houses." What pond this was is not stated.

It was "also agreed that the proprietors shall not keep above 20 head of cattle each upon the great neck for a share." This great neck was probably that land by the Herring Brook which was to be "in general" and used in common by all as pasturage.

Again "we have laid out 20 acres to a share next to Jonathan Hatches ground abutting upon the sea and running 200 rods towards the woods. This work is now concluded and the agreement signed Dec. 3, 1661." Jonathan Hatch is one of the signers.

Jonathan Hatch's father died in Barnstable in 1661 and Mar. 3, 1662 Jonathan and his sister Lydia, who married Henry Taylor Dec. 19, 1650 applied for and were granted letters of administration upon their father's estate by the Plymouth Colony Court. Isaac Robinson and Thomas Ewer were appointed to make an inventory and appraisal of the estate which they did May 27 and it was sworn to by the widow.

The new settlement at Succunnesset not being strong enough at that time to stand alone it was ordered by the Court in Mar. 1663 "that Succunnesset shall for the present belong to Barnstable."

The first purchase of land at Succunnesset by the original company in 1660 was probably not largely in excess of that allotted to the proprietors in Nov. and Dec., 1661.

Sometime subsequent to the first purchase the company obtained additional land; a tract extending along the seashore from Woods Hole to Five Mile River and extending inland four or five miles, apparently completely surrounding the first purchase except on the sea side. In July 1677 it was agreed to lay out additional lands of 60 acres to a share, also meadows. John Howland and Thomas Lathrop acting for the company appointed Bernard Lambert, William Gifford and John Smith a committee who laid out 12 strips or lots which were assigned to Moses Rowley, Sr., Joseph Hull, Thomas Griffin, John Robinson, Samuel Tilley, Nathaniel Skiff, Thomas Johnson, William Gifford, Thomas Lewis, John Jenkins, Jonathan Hatch, Sr., William Wicks or Weeks, and Thomas Ewer. There were also other 10 acre lots laid out to the same individuals. The balance of the tract was held in common to be sold later to others. Jonathan Hatch and Isaac Robinson were appointed a committee to sell the lands of those who did not wish to settle there.

It was about this time when settlement was extending and land was becoming valuable that Jonathan remembered the land the old Indian Chief had given him some years before. The old Chief was not living then but his son remembered the gift and confirmed it by the following deed dated Jan. 15, 1679, signed by Job Notantico, Indian of Succunnesset.

INDIAN DEED TO JONATHAN HATCH

"To all people to whom these presents may come, Job Notantico, son of Thomas Notantico, Indian of Succunnesset in the Govt. of New Plymouth, sendeth greeting etc.

Know ye that I, the said Job Notantico, understanding that my father, the said Notantico, Sachem, many years ago, about or since the beginning of the Succunnesset Plantation, did freely and absolutely grant and give unto Jonathan Hatch, Sr., of the said Succunnesset all that tract or neck commonly called Woods Hole Neck, excepting a part which he, the said Notantico reserved for himself which afterwards he exchanged with Succunnesset men and accepted in lieu thereof 40 acres at little Sipperwisset, with liberty to cut sticks and wood in the commons. The fins and tails, whales cast ashore to be mine, etc."

This deed was witnessed by Shearjashub Bourne and Bathsheba Bourne and acknowledged by Job Notantico, alias Attuckoo, before Thomas Hinkley, Assistant.

There was preaching at Succunnesset—often at the house of Jonathan Hatch—but there was no regular church organization till the autumn of 1708. The business meetings of the proprietors were held more often at his house than elsewhere. When strangers arrived they were often entertained at Jonathan Hatch's till his house became a place of public entertainment for travelers and others and was finally licensed as such with the privilege of selling liquor for their use.

When any of Jonathan's good friends among the Indians were present it was doubtless a little difficult for him to refuse them a little "fire water." June 7, 1670 he was fined £3 for selling them liquor; but knowing the Indians as he did it is not likely he gave them enough to make them dangerous.

Shortly after King Phillip's War Jonathan Hatch bought of Capt. Church three Indians, a man, wife and child, probably prisoners, many of whom were taken near the close of the war, for the apparent purpose of liberating them. June 3, 1679 Jonathan and the brothers of the woman appeared in Court where it was agreed that "for £6 the man and woman should be released and the child should remain with Goodman Hatch till 24 years of age and then be released forever."

In Colonial times the local Inn or Tavern often became the Civic Center of the community and excepting the meeting house was the most frequented place in town and the tavern keeper the best informed man in the community. People flocked there to learn not only the local gossip but the news of the outside world from travelers.

When in June 4, 1686 Succunnesset was detached from Barnstable and incorporated as a separate township and given the name of Falmouth, Jonathan Hatch's public house was the logical place for holding town meetings for the transaction of town business and all public affairs. From this time on Jonathan became more prominent in the affairs and business of the town. He was often engaged in running the lines of lots, attending to the sale of lands and transfers of titles. Age and experience had toned down the fire and impetuosity of youth and he had become an honored and respected citizen and a religious man. June 24, 1690 he took the Freeman's oath and was admitted as a Freeman of the Colony at the County Court at Barnstable; which was something of a distinction at that time as none but men of known probity and integrity and generally church members could attain to that honor.

Jonathan Hatch acquired a large land estate and was regarded as among the wealthy of those times. In his later years he became the venerable patriarch of a large and esteemed family of children and grand children. He apparently gave away all his land to his children previous to his death as shown by the following:

LAST WILL OF JONATHAN HATCH

"I Jonathan Hatch, Sr., of Falmouth, in the county of Barnstable in the Province of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, being now, through the mercy of God in complete health and of disposing mind and memory, yet being aged and calling to mind the uncertainty of this Transitory life, I am desirous, according to my duty to settle things in order before I go hence, and therefore do make this my Last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and disannulling all former will and wills by word or writing heretofore by me made and hereby constitute and declare this to be my Last will and testament, in manner and form following, viz: My desire is to commit my soul to God in Jesus Christ, who gave it and my body to decent burial when God shall please to call me hence. And as touching my worldly estate which God hath beyond my deserts bestowed on me, my will is to dispose of it as follows: Imprimis, I will and bequeath to my six sons, viz: Thomas Hatch, Jonathan Hatch, Joseph Hatch, Benjamin Hatch, Samuel Hatch and Moses Hatch, to each of them one shilling over and above of what they have already had to be paid out of my estate. It.—I will and bequeath to my two daughters Mary Weeks and Sarah Wing to each, of them three shillings over and above of what they have already had, to be paid out of my estate."

"It.—I will and bequeath to my daughter, Marcy Rowley, all and singular my movables and debts and twenty pound of the thirty pound to be paid six years after my decease by my two sons, Samuel Hatch and Moses Hatch as may appear by obligations under their hands and seals bearing date, March the twentieth, One thousand seven hundred (1700) and I do hereby ordain, constitute and appoint my daughter, Marcy Rowley (wife of Nathan) to be my sole Executrix to this, my Last Will and Testament to administer upon all my estate. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the fifteenth day of September, Anno Domini, One Thousand seven hundred and five."

Signed, sealed and declared to be his last will and testament, in the presence of us:

John Weeks, William Weeks and Thomas Bowman, Proved 4 Jan., 1710-11, Attest, William Bussett, Regtr.

His son Nathaniel and daughter Lydia were possibly not then living, as they are not mentioned in the will but there are reasons for believing that Nathaniel married and left descendants.

There is ample evidence that Jonathan continued to do business till the time of his death. As one of the agents of the proprietors he was often called upon to look after their interests and they could not have been confided to more faithful hands.

He died at Falmouth in Dec., 1710, aged 84, honored and respected by the community among whom he had lived for the last fifty years.

Jonathan Hatch was the progenitor in America of a numerous family of Hatches which are now to be found in nearly all the Northern, East, Central and Western states. Some of these Hatches I personally knew and they, and probably the most of them, still retain the traits of business ability, energy and force of character that distinguished their ancestor, Jonathan Hatch.

I wish to say here that much of the information on which the above sketch is based was furnished to me by Mrs. Ruth A. Hatch Hale, Recorder of the Hatch Genealogical Society of Salt Lake City, Utah, after many years of painstaking research and investigation among the records of the past, and to whom due credit should be given. I have prepared the sketch at her request to assist in getting the work ready for publication.

SPENCER E. SMITH,

One of Jonathan Hatch's descendants.

When scarcely seven years of age his mother died leaving his father with three infant children, Nathaniel being the oldest. When he was about thirty years old, he was a soldier in King Philip's War, 1675. Jonathan Hatch, Sarah's father, had penetrated the wilds on the east shores of Buzzard's Bay, as early as 1661, and in his family, Nathaniel Wing found his wife. It was probably due to this marriage that Nathaniel himself, settled on the shores of Buzzard's Bay, in the town of Sandwich (which then extended across the Cape) and not distant from his father-in-law. The marriage may have taken place between the years 1680-90, at a time when Nathaniel was a bachelor of mature years. He was admitted a townsman of Sandwich in 1681. He died in the 76th year of his age. In his will probated in Barnstable Court, 4 Dec., 1722, he mentions his widow Sarah, and his sons, Nathaniel, Ebenezer and Joseph, and his daughters, Hozia, Sarah, Mary, Oseah. His widow Sarah survived him about nine years, and died 8 July, 1731; she also made her will in which she mentions her sons, Nathaniel, Ebenezer and Joseph, and makes her daughter Mary her executrix, and mentions "three other daughters." Her estate inventoried £80, 16s.

June, 1678, MERCY, daughter of Joshua and Abigail (Linnell) Lombard. (One record says that she was Mary Hamblin) was born 15 June, 1655, at Barnstable, Mass. She died at Falmouth, Mass., 6 March, 1681-2. He married second at Falmouth or Chilmark, Martha's Vineyard, record of Marriage in Falmouth runs thus: "Benjamin Hatch of Falmouth, Mass. and Ellis (Alice) Eddy of Martha's Vineyard married 16 Mar., 1682-3. She was born 3 May, 1659." She was daughter of John and Hepzibah (Daggett) Eddy of Tisbury, M. V. She died about 1710 and he married third, 13 Feb., 1711-2, Mrs. Experience Linnell Davis, dau. of David and Hannah ——— Linnell of Barnstable, and widow of Jabez Davis, at Barnstable, Mass., (who probably outlived him). We have no account of his death. The marriage ceremony was performed by Justice Gorham. She was married to 1st husband, Jabez Davis, 20, August, 1689, by whom she had seven children, as follows:

1. Nathan, b. 2 Mar., 1690.
2. Samuel, b. 25 Sept., 1692.
3. Bathsheua, b. 16 Jan., 1694. Md. (#22) Nathaniel⁴, Hatch (son of Benjamin³, Jonathan³, Thomas³), as a second wife.
4. Isaac, b. 23 April, 1696.
5. Abigail, b. 26 April, 1698, md. Hamblin
6. Jacob, b. Oct., 1699.
7. Mary or Mercy, b. 16 Feb., 1701. Md. (#33) Zacheous⁴, Hatch, (Samuel³, Jonathan³, Thomas³.)

Benjamin³ was a Cordwainer by trade and farmer in Falmouth. Most of his children removed to the State of Conn. after 1721-2. As near as can be found out, Benjamin³ Sr., died at one of his son's, probably in Conn.

In the will of Experience (Linnell) (Davis) Hatch which was dated 16 Dec., 1736, two of her daughters, Abigail Hamblin and Mary Hatch are mentioned as Legatees. Four grandchildren are also mentioned. They are children of her deceased daughter, Bathsheua, namely: Ellis, Elizabeth, Experience, and Jabez Hatch. Apparently only four of her children survived her, Nathan, Jacob, Abigail Hamblin, and Mary Davis Hatch.

7. NATHANIEL HATCH³, (Jonathan², Thomas¹), b. in Barn-stable, Mass., 5 June, 1657 is undoubtedly the Nathaniel who obtained a marriage license in Boston, Mass. 9 Oct., 1681 and married ELIZABETH ESTES, daughter of Aaron and Susan Estes and grand-daughter of Richard Estes of Deal Kent, England, whose will was proved 23 June, 1673.

PART I—page 29

Clarence A. Torrey of Dorchester, Massachusetts, sent the following information, Sept., 1926:

Elizabeth⁴ Hatch, daughter of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Estes) No. 7 ii.

"Elizabeth⁴ b. 2 Aug., 1693 at Boston; md. 26 July, 1722, Peter Luce, a Boston merchant. He was a Huguenot. She was probably his second wife. Was in Boston as early as 1717. His heirs and Estes⁴ Hatch (No. 28) had a joint interest in a large farm. This makes it clear that it was his sister that married Peter Luce."

Elizabeth (Estes) Hatch was baptized 3 Sept., 1660 in Deal Kent, England and had a brother Nicholas and Sister Susannah. The latter had her will dated 5 July, 1697.

Nathaniel³ Hatch is not mentioned in his father's will of 15 Sept., 1705, probably died before that date, the exact date of his death has not been found. His children as far as known are:

ISSUE:

- ii. *Eliza*⁴ or Elizabeth, b. 2 Aug., 1693 at Boston.

8. SAMUEL³ (Jonathan², Thomas¹), b. 10 Oct., 1659 at South Sea, Barnstable, Mass., md. LYDIA ———. He was a Cordwainer by trade and farmer at Falmouth, Mass. Was a member with his wife of Church at Barnstable and dismissed to Church at Falmouth Oct., 1708 at its formation. Was a man of some property and d. in Falmouth, Mass., 1718. His eldest son Samuel was Administrator on his estate and appointed a guardian to the minor children. The estate was divided 1723-4. The widow and 9 children alive at this date. (The two first having died.) The estate was divided into ten shares, 20 Feb., 1723-4. The eldest son having double portion. There were £272 personal and about £250 real estate.

(The following has been contributed by Spencer E. Smith of St. Paul, Minn., a descendant of Samuel³, Jonathan², Thomas¹.)

"Not very much is known of Samuel beyond the fact that he was a worker in leather—a maker of boots and shoes. He may have resided for a time in Chilmark as it is known some of his children married into Chimark families.

"It was customary to baptize children very soon after birth, sometimes the first Sunday after, as Edward (my line) was baptized 2 July, 1704, he was probably born some time in June or possibly May, 1704.

"Samuel's wife, Lydia, was a member of the Church at Barnstable. She was one of the Charter Members of the first Church organized in Falmouth the 10, Oct., 1708.

"Samuel's brother Moses gave the land on which the church edifice was built. The land is of triangular shape, occupying a whole city block near the center of the city of Falmouth and is now, (1917), a beautiful little park."

- i. *Eleazer*⁴, b. 23 Sept., 1694, died young.

Benjamin, Sr., through his son Timothy, state from records in their possession that Zephaniah was son of Benjamin³, Jonathan², Thomas¹. I am inclined to think from all records found that he was more likely to be son of Nathaniel⁴, than of Benjamin³, Sr., but I have classed him as son of Benjamin³, Sr. The following are all the children known of Nathaniel⁴, by his wife Bashaway Davis. There is also a marriage on record in Sandwich, Mass., of Nathaniel Hatch of Falmouth, Mass. and Keturah Swift of Sandwich, Md. 14 Sept., 1727. This might be Nathaniel⁴, son Benjamin³, his wife Bashaway having died just what date is not known, except what we get from her mother's will (widow Experience Linnell (Davis) Hatch) made Dec., 1736 in Barnstable and proved the next month, wherein she mentions two daughters, Abigail Hamlin and Mary Hatch as legatees and four grandchildren are also mentioned, the children of her dau. Bashaway Hatch (deceased), viz: Ellis (Alice) Elizabeth, Experience and Jabez Hatch. This widow Experience, was Widow of Benjamin Hatch, Sr., (said Nathaniel's Step-mother.) (The above is from Edwin T. Hatch's notes.)

Note: From Harwinton, Connecticut, records we find that a Nathaniel Hatch and Keturah (Katurah) ——— had a child, Mary, born there 5 June, 1738; and a Keturah Hatch of Woodbury, Connecticut, was married to Joseph Curtis, 11 Nov., 1783. It may be possible that this was the same Nathaniel who married Keturah Swift, 14 Sept., 1727 in Sandwich, and that this Keturah who married Curtis is his daughter. Nothing further is known of Nathaniel in Mass., so we judge that he must have gone to Connecticut after the death of Bashaway. This statement, however, has not been proven. (H. G. S.)

73. NATHAN OR NATHANIEL HATCH⁵ (John⁴, Benjamin³, Jonathan², Thomas¹), b. at Mansfield, Conn., 1 July, 1726; md. at New Haven, Conn., 6 Dec., 1757, ACHSAH PARMELEE. She was undoubtedly the daughter of Abel Parmelee and Sarah Doolittle (the line being, Abel⁴, Job³, John², John¹. Achsah was born the 23 Sept., 1737. They were of Conn. and Nine Partners Dutchess, Co., N. Y.) (*Note 1, page 94.)

Nathaniel and wife must not have remained long in Dutchess Co., N. Y., but at least one of their children was born there in 1766-7. The 12 June, 1772 two children were christened in Whitehaven, Fairhaven Church in Conn. The 8 Dec., 1776 their youngest child, Oliver, was christened in New Haven, though said to have been born in Weathersfield, Vt., 1775. The distance to have been traveled in those days, with probably only ox teams as a means of conveyance, causes us to believe that there must be a mistake in the name of the state and that Oliver was born in Weathersfield, Conn. instead of Vt. Another evidence that Conn. was Nathaniels' state of residence is the following taken from the "Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the War of the Revolution:"

"Hatch, Nathaniel, Wethersfield, Conn. Capt. Abel Wilder's company; Col. Ephraim Doolittle's regt., receipt for advance pay dated Charleston, June 26, 1775. Also, private same company and regt. Muster roll dated Aug., 1, 1775. Enlisted May 10, 1775. Company return dated Oct., 6, 1775."

The tradition among some of Nathaniel's descendants was that he came to his death by being drowned, while crossing the ice on Lake Champlain, with a number of Continental soldiers; but from the Town Papers of Charlestown, N. H. Vol. 11, p. 236, the following is taken:

Selectman's petition about a soldier who died of small pox in 1776. "In a petition dated Charlestown, N. H., Aug. 31, 1776, Samuel Hunt, Enos Stevens and William Heywood, selectmen, state that a discharged continental soldier, by the name of Nathaniel Hatch came to town from Ticonderoga on July 23 being sick with the small pox; that they furnished the services of Dr. Stevens and otherwise provided for him until Aug. 17, when he died; that the man had neither friends or money. They asked the general assembly to grant an order to pay the bills."

Near La Grange, Vt. just north of Bellows Falls, his bones were accidentally found in 1810 by men at work on a turnpike between Charleston and Walpole, N. H., this being brought to the attention of his son Oliver; his remains were taken to Norwich, Vt. (*Note 2, page 94) and there deposited in the cemetery.

The following item has been copied from a small memorandum book of Oliver Hatch, "In memory of Nathaniel Hatch, who died with small pox at Charlestown, N. H., July 3, 1776."

The date does not agree with that given in the Charlestown, N. H., papers, but it means without doubt, the same person.

From the Trinity Episcopal Church records of New Haven, Conn., we glean the following:

14 Dec., 1790; Buried Mary, wife of Stephen Chatterton, age 63.

10 Jan., 1791; Joined in marriage, Stephen Chatterton and Axxa Hatch.

6 June, 1797; Buried Stephen Chatterton in his 66th year."

"These records following in close chronological order as they do leads one to believe that Achsah (Axxa) Parmelee Hatch, Widow of Nathaniel, md. 2nd, Stephen Chatterton on the above date."

Y., near Danbury, Ct., 25 Sept., 1766-7; md. 23 Nov., 1789 ELIZABETH HAIGHT; the ceremony being performed by Abel Thompson, Ferrisburg, Addison Co., N. Y. His wife was the dau. of Caleb and Elizabeth (Allen) Haight. She was b. 24 April, 1772 at Nine Partners, Dutchess Co., N. Y. Very little is known of Jeremiah's early life. His father having died in the Continental Army the Summer of 1776, he was bound out to service to a man who was very unkind to him. When about 15 years old his master sent him to the mill with a sack of grain on his back. On the way he met a recruiting Officer and was induced to run away and join the army. He was not the desired height for a soldier so became a fifer in "Capt. Tisdale's Co., Col. John Groaton's 3rd Regt. The descriptive list dated Huts, New Boston 13 May, 1782: aged 17 yrs., stature 5 ft. (also given 4 ft. 10 in.) complexion dark, hair dark, eyes dark; occupation yeoman, (also given laborer). He gave his residence as at Topsfield; enlisted for town of Winchendon. Reported transferred to Capt. Woodbridge's Co. 10 June, 1782."

After his release from the army he was placed in charge of a military company in his home town and the title of Captain given to him and thereafter he was always known as Captain Jeremiah Hatch. His pension for service as a Revolutionary Soldier was $96.00 a year. After his marriage his mother made her home with them for some years. The couple was unfortunate with their first children for twelve of them died in infancy. The names of only four of these have been obtainable. Like Hannah of old she pleaded with the Lord to give her a child and covenanted with Him that if the child lived she would dedicate him to His service. Her prayer was answered and she was blessed with four sons who lived to become men. The eldest of the four was the first to receive the message that the Latter Day Saint Elders proclaimed to the world of the restored Gospel. He brought the glad news to his parents who were living in Bristol, Addison Co., Vt. Both received it and were baptized in 1840 and soon made preparations to gather with the Saints in Nauvoo, Ill. They disposed of their property to good advantage and in 1842 were on their journey to the West in wagons

Rev. I. N. Kalb filled the appointment of the presiding elder at Fostoria, April 19th, preaching with his usual fervor to the edification of the people.

The infant daughter, Ruth, of Rev. J. F. Laird and wife, of Troy Circuit, Springfield District, died April 10th, aged two months and three days. The funeral service was held April 11th, and the burial took place at Camden, Ohio.

Rev. Ira Jameson, of Fostoria, Ohio, a superannuated member of the Central Ohio Conference, preached and administered the communion for the elder at Amsden, Ohio, a few weeks ago. His sermon and service greatly pleased the Church.

Rev. Ira E. Price, lately pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Manchester, Ohio, Milford District, and Miss Mary Ethel Robuck, of Manchester, were united in marriage at the Palace Hotel, Cincinnati, at high noon, the 16th inst. Rev. A. N. Spahr, presiding elder of the Milford District, officiating. Bishop Walden has just transferred Brother Price to the North Indiana Conference and appointed him to Trenton. He leaves many friends in the Cincinnati Conference.

Mrs. Sarah Kesler, one of the oldest citizens of Fulton County, Ohio, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Murray, February 9, 1903. Mrs. Kesler was born October 12, 1818, in Pickaway County, where many of her relations yet live, and where a few old friends may remember her as Sarah Hoppis. From girlhood to her death, she was an earnest Christian, and loyal to the Methodist Church. For nearly forty years she has borne the burdens of widowhood, but God so used her life that many of her posterity are steadily pressing Zionward. Her funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. M. Baker.

William Lackey was born in Perry County, Pa., September 18, 1818. His father, John Lackey, died when he was nine years old, leaving the mother with four children in destitute circumstances. William being the oldest, assumed responsibility with the mother, and was thus deprived of school privileges until in 1833, when they came to Tuscarawas County, Ohio, where he had some school opportunities, of which he availed himself, obtaining a fair education. He was converted at sixteen, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and remained a loyal and zealous member of the Church militant for more than sixty-eight years, when called to the Church triumphant.

For more than forty years he was a class-leader in the Church, and held other official relations. For more than fifty years he has taken the Western Christian Advocate. He always stood for God and the Church, making other things secondary to his religious duties. March 8, 1845, he was married to Diadame Hall. To this union nine children were born, two of whom preceded him to the spirit world. His aged companion, seven children, fifty-eight grandchildren, and nineteen great-grandchildren, together with a host of friends, mourn their loss. He resided in Allen County forty-nine years. He died March 15, 1903, aged eighty-four years. The funeral occurred at Bethel Grove, on West Cairo charge. The interment was in Harpster cemetery, near West Cairo, Ohio.—G. W. S.

Rev. Henry Brown, a superannuate of the Central Ohio Conference, residing near Hicksville, and his good wife celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary the 10th of this month. The League and Church at Hicksville gave them a grand reception in the parlors of the church. A purse of $35 in gold was presented them by the Church and Masonic friends. After an informal program of songs and speeches, Rev. F. W. Stanton, the pastor, humorously reunited them in marriage, while an aged couple who were present at their first marriage stood up with them. Refreshments were served, and the election was then held for lay delegate to the Lay Electoral Conference to be held at Findlay next fall. Mr. George Simmons was elected delegate, and Mr. A. E. Hart alternate. It was a delightful occasion, and Brother and Sister Brown, loved and respected by a host of friends, were started on another half-century with hearty congratulations, prayers, and good wishes.

A three weeks' meeting at White Chapel resulted in eleven conversions and the membership greatly revived. Plans are on foot for the building of a new church. H. Hershey is pastor.

An excellent class in mission study is being conducted by the pastor at Morrow, the Rev. W. E. Putt. The subject taken up by the class is that arranged by the committee for the present year, "The Price of Africa."

Milford District, Cincinnati Conference, Epworth League will for its annual meeting combine the best features of the convention, the institute, and an outing. It will be held late in June at Epworth Heights, and continue for three days.

A number of children and members of the Staunton Church, Staunton Charge, Ohio Conference, visited the parsonage on their pastor's birthday, and gave him a very happy surprise. A handsome leather rocker was presented by the children, and many good wishes were expressed upon the tables to

John A. Lackey was born in Mifflin Co., Penn., Jan. 24, 1824, and died at his home near Butler, Ind., March 7, 1901, aged 77 years, 2 months and 3 days.

He was married to Rachel A. Yorks June 30, 1852. To them were born ten children—seven sons and three daughters, two sons having preceded him in death. He leaves a wife, five sons and three daughters to mourn his departure.

Funeral services were held in the Church of God Sunday March 10, 1901, conducted by Rev. G. R. Gano. Interment in the Butler cemetery.

P. B. Stroup, presiding elder of Sandusky District; Revs. Messrs. Knapp, Stewart, and Hastings. The floral decorations were beautiful, and the house completely filled. A class of eight were baptized, and fifteen were received into Church fellowship. The spiritual condition of the Church is growing better each year.—M. W. Reece, Pastor.

Easter Sunday was a day of delight to Methodists of Ravenna, and will long be remembered. The pastor, Dr. Whittaker, preached a very helpful sermon in the morning on "The Reality of the Resurrection." The missionary program prepared by the Sunday-school was rendered, in the evening, in a very delightful way. Every number was good. The attendance at Sunday-school was larger than for several years, and the offering was $109.01, the largest in many years, if not the largest ever given. The congregations regularly fill the church.

Nelsonville Methodism is doing well. One of the largest Sunday morning audiences during the present pastorate was present Easter Sabbath. This was Missionary-day, both in the Church and Sunday-school. More than $160 were contributed, which, with what will come from the regular collections of the Sunday-school, will meet the full apportionment, $225. Last year the Nelsonville Sunday-school was the banner school of Marietta District in its contribution to missions. All the interests of the Church are well sustained. L. B. Sparks is the pastor.

Trinity, Sandusky, Ohio, Charles F. Johnson pastor, observed Easter as Missionary-day, and a great day it was. An inspiring prayer and praise meeting, by the Epworth League, was held at 6 A. M. The Sunday-school was of unusual interest. A congregation filled the entire church, and listened to a missionary sermon by the pastor, after which he brought a blackboard to the platform, and proceeded to take the missionary subscription, securing more than the full apportionment. The evening service was in the hands of Professor Williams, superintendent of the Sunday-school, and an impressive program was rendered, including a beautiful graduation exercise for those who are to be promoted. Twenty-three children from the primary department took their examination before the audience, reciting the Apostles' Creed, the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, the Beatitudes, the names of the twelve apostles, and the names of the books of the New Testament, and were given diplomas and promoted to the intermediate department. Both the pastor and the Sunday-school were fully supported by the choir, which was at its best. When the Sunday-school offerings were in, and the footings made, all told, there was, for missions, $357.75, and this will be increased, by the monthly Sunday-school offerings for the rest of the year and gleanings yet to be done, to $400, making out $1.26 per member. All other collections are taken, save one, and are all well in advance of last year, which was in advance of any previous year. More than twenty have united with the Church since Conference.
